

DO MORE THAN JUST WATCH: Respect Human Rights, Fight for Social Justice!
Fifth Annual Human Rights and Social Justice Program at Miami – Fall 2008

The Annual Human Rights and Social Justice Program is an opportunity for raising awareness about economic, social, cultural and human rights violations locally and around the world, and to engage our community in making a difference. This program is a result of a collaborative work and partnership among a variety of Miami University constituencies and local, national and international organizations- in the efforts of building a culture of social justice. The program includes an information fair and film festival, a City of Oxford proclamation, special presentations related to service learning and other community engagement/leadership programs, guest speakers and panel, and a photo exhibit. The Human Rights and Social Justice Program takes place at the beginning of the International Education Week.

November 17 – December 12

“Growing Season: The Life of A Migrant Community” Photo Exhibition

MacMillan Hall Lobby - Open to the public

Tuesday, November 18

Kaitlyn Baker, MU Student, Disability Studies - Students Engaged in Activism: The Fight for Social Justice in the Disability Rights Community

4:30 p.m. - 212 MacMillan Hall

Born into Brothels: Calcutta’s Red Light Kids (2004, 85 minutes)

Directed by Zana Briski, and Ross Kauffman

6:00 p.m. - 212 MacMillan Hall

Dr. Theresa Kulbaga, Department of English, discussion facilitator

Fifth Annual Human Rights and Social Justice Film Festival

Wednesday, November 19

Information Fair – 10:00 a.m. - 4:00 p.m., Multipurpose Rooms, Shriver Center

Writing Workshop – Noon – 1:15 p.m., Multipurpose Room “C”, Shriver Center

o Wendy Hesford, Ohio State University, Writing is Reading is Writing: Helping Students Write with Challenging Texts

Special presentations and Panel – 1:00 P.M. – 6:00 P.M., 212 MacMillan Hall

o Elizabeth Ferris, Senior Fellow, Foreign Policy, The Brookings Institution – Human Rights of Internally Displaced Persons

o Gary Harwood and David Hassler, Kent State University – Growing Season: A Life of a Migrant Community.

o Wendy Hesford, Ohio State University – Children’s Human Rights, Rhetorical Agency, and Transnational Sentimentality.

Growing Season: The Life of A Migrant Community, Photo Exhibition, Talk and Reception, 6:00 p.m., MacMillan Hall Lobby

For more information about this project visit: www.growingseason.net

Discovering Dominga (US, 2003, 60 minutes) Directors: Patricia Flynn & Mary Jo McConahay 7:00 p.m. – 9:00 p.m. - 46 Culler Hall

Latin American Film Festival - Fifth Human Rights and Social Justice Film Festival

Thursday, November 20

Mike Johnson, Oxford Community Choice Pantry, Having a Choice: Best Practice in Food Distribution that Builds Strong and Sustainable Communities
4:30 p.m. - 212 MacMillan Hall

Sustainable Table: What's in Your Plate? (2006, 52 minutes) Director: Mischa Hedges 6:00 p.m. - 212 McMillan Hall
Dr. Marcia England, Department of Geography, discussion facilitator
Fifth Annual Human Rights and Social Justice Film Festival

For more information and details about the Fifth Annual Human Rights and Social Justice Program visit www.muohio.edu/cawc Calendar of events.

Co-sponsored by the Center for American and World Cultures, the Center for Enhancement of Learning and Teaching, the Department of Anthropology, the Department of Communication, the Department of English, the Department of Geography, the Department of Spanish and Portuguese, the Department of Sociology and Gerontology, the Faber Scholar-in-Residence, the Institute of Environmental Sciences, the Harry T. Wilks Leadership Institute, the International Studies Program, the José and Kathy Barahona Latino Resource Fund, the Office of International Education, the Roger and Joyce Howe Center for Writing Excellence, the School of Education, Health and Society, the Western Program, the Women's Center and the Women's Studies Program